

"We were not really soldiers at all; we were just civilians with guns in our hands, mainly young chaps."

Hawtin Mundy – interview, 1980

*"I can't believe that ... with a thing ...
HEROES or COWARDS during that war.*

I was in it from the first week to the finish. That included trench warfare ... two ...

*... a prisoner of war and ...
... lots of wounds on the way."*

A New Bradwell lad of 19, he was three times injured and a prisoner of war in Germany. His interviews are the core of Living Archive MK. "No Heroes, no cowards" by Hawtin Mundy
